COLLARED ME

Embellished sparkly collars are my on-course fashion #MustDo this Spring Season. Use your collar as an accessory and be sure to decorate and add some shine to your golf ensemble, it will make your game and collar pop!

I love old school golf attire, I am a believer in golf tradition. I respect the rules of women's golf and its "dress code," but surely it can be played with in a classy and stylish way. So, with that being said, do I always wear a collar? The answer is no, but if I had to, it should be stylish, and I should feel fabulous and comfortable while I strut down the fairway.

Embellish Me

There is no such thing as over the top. This black embellished collar definitely makes a statement on the course. Rain or shine, this collar will always sparkle and give any and every outfit the best-dressed award of the day.

The Classic Pearl

You can never go wrong with pearls. Jacqueline Kennedy once famously said, "Pearls are always appropriate." And this spring they are an on-course trend. When most women think of pearls they think of jewelry. This season, however, pearls are making a comeback in a playful and modern way by not wearing them as earrings or a necklace, but on your ensemble. The best look on course—a pearl collar. It's the cutest and most elegant statement while tapping in for birdies

Look #3

Bold with Ruffles

Whether they're framing your face or around your neckline, ruffles make a dramatic statement. Ruffles act as an accessory, so when wearing a ruffle collar it's important to note, "let your collar do the shining." Pull your hair in a tight and sleek ponytail so it doesn't get in the way of your ruffles and wear little studs or earrings so that your jewels don't attract all the attention.

Let your ruffles steal the show and your putter make the birdies.

Look #4

Sparkle & Shine

If we must wear collars at private courses because it's a requirement, well then, we should rejuvenate their requirements with some glitter. Every color sparkle makes a statement and is appropriate at any course. Much like the ruffle collar, you want to let your glitter have it's shine. Pair it with some studded earrings and a pulled back ponytail. Let the your collar do the sparkle and your game shine. &
